THE INVESTMENT

Three retainers, or a project.

Monthly work is paid in advance. A project is 50 percent to confirm and 50 percent on delivery of the final files. Dates are held only when that first payment lands.

AD HOC

A project

A defined sprint with a finish: research, concepts, one shoot day, a bank of 10 or more pieces. No monthly obligation. If the sprint works, a retainer conversation is then worth both sides' time.

HOW IT STARTS

Pick a shape. Then we write it down.

Nothing here is a confirmed engagement. The scope of work is the contract. The first payment is the gate.

1 Choose a retainer, or a project.

If you are unsure, say what you need done and by when. I will recommend one shape.

2 We fill a short scope of work.

Deliverables, floor quantities, inclusions, exclusions, the decision owner, and the price. Email is enough to agree it.

3 First payment confirms the work.

Retainers: the first month in advance. A project: 50 percent. Dates are held only once that lands. The balance of a project is due on delivery of the final files.

THE FLOOR

Each option names a conservative quantity. Extra output, when it happens, is one-off. It does not raise the next month's obligation or change the price on its own.
